

Bye bye Nature Network, welcome SciLogs.com

Martin Fenner, Gobbledygook

July 26, 2012

Figure 1:

The science blogging network Nature Network is moving to a new home. Today SciLogs.com launched as new home for Nature Network bloggers. I have been blogging at Nature Network for three years, starting with my first blog post (Open access may become mandatory for NIH-funded research) almost exactly 5 years ago to the day. My blog moved to PLOS BLOGS in September 2010 and all my old Nature Network content can be found here at PLOS BLOGS.

Blogging at Nature Network has changed my life in many ways. Thank you Matt and Corie (and later Lou) to make this possible.